Paola Abiko

Paola Abiko takes felt to a new level by using it to make decoration items. This Brazilian artist started developing a passion for felt when she started an internship in a felt making company. For so long, the material was only used in the hat manufacturing industry but Paola Abiko started using the material for other purposes and succeeded in discovering the multiple possibilities to use the felt. The core of the brand is to design pieces that will not be bypassed. The intention is to create a dialogue between people and objects, to invoke feelings and perceptions. She is also very concerned about the environment, the felt she works with is 100% natural sheep wool and all the material that is waste of one product is used to create another. She began as a small artisan creating accessories in 2006; still testing how felt would react as a material to all those new shapes and forms but eventually outgrew to a company taking felt to a whole new level designing houses and having her work recognized around the country.
